the aperius and instructor in physical diagnoss in the University of Peinsylvania, says the physical class is frequently puzzide when prescribing for a convalescent as to which alcoholic boverage of a mild and pleasant character he can recommend with the least fear of "upsetting" the stomach. The writer has, therefore, attempted to decide

Before passing to a direct consuperation of unstable methods employed and the results obtained it is necessary that a tew physiological and therapeut cal points be brought forward. Every one know that alcohol retards digestion in the test tube, but adds it in the stomach; and while these facts necessarily appropriate the property of the property of

In the atomach the alcohol acts quite as much on the digastive ferment as it does on the test-tube, but it also, by the presence of that viscas, excite the gastric glands to such an extent that an excess of gastric pluce is secreted sufficient to counterbal ance any anti-digastive inducences. In other words, the action of the spirit on the living tissue is greater than its action on the digestive ferments. Theoretically, alcohol should never be used it indigestion or in conditions of gastric weakness, practically, every physician of experience or education gives alcohol under just these circumstances, and, very properly, too, gives the stronge alcoholic preparations instead of the weeker. It typhold fever we give brandy or whisky in the

I I should not be forgotice that while all al-bile fluids theoretically retard gnatifed gestion, beer does so much less than brandy or whisky ing to its small amount of alcohol, and while, as that beer does so much less than brandy or whisky owing to its small amount of alcohol, and while, as has already been shown, this fact rather obtain against its practical use, that this is overcome by the carbonic acid and bitter principles of the beer, which stimulate, excite and act as bitter tonics on the gastric glands.

Beers, to be wholesome, should, therefore, contain carbonic acid and hitter principles to a rair degree, the alcohol taking a misservint and al-most useless role so far as digestion is concerned. To sum up the results of these experiments, we find that the beers examined varied in their action as much as fity-nine minutes, and that while most beers do not retard digestion in all probability in the stomach, that others, such as those mentioned in the first part of the table, aid digestion very ma-

Thus, in the case of the BERGNER & ENGEL BREWING COMPANY'S Tannihacuser it will be noted that even in the test-tube the average delay in gastric digestion equated but

G. Blaine will be the nominee for the head of the Republican ticket. Two weeks ago it was difficult to find one person who thought so, outside of a few very intimate, personal and political friends, who were determined to never give up the fight for the Plumed Knight. In a canvass of scores of persons of all classes to-day, I have really not found a single man, Republican or Democrat, who would assert that the logic of the situation did not point to the nomination of Blaine. A great Senator, one of those most conspicuously mentioned as a probable nominee and who is daily spoken of by sagacious editors as the one upon whom the mantle of Blaine is most likely to fall, said to me frankly-but at the same time refusing to permit the use of his name—that he believed Blaine would be nominated.

Those Blaine Rumors.

Washington Letter.

Within the past twenty-four hours numerous reports have been sent out from here regarding a new Blaine boom. They are wholly without foundation, and are the work of Democrats who desire to create uncertainty and if possible discord among the Republican delegates en route or about starting for Chicago. The parties instrumental in disseminating those rumors are the same ones who denounced Mr. Blaine a few weeks ago, and as a general thing the newspapers circulating the stories are opposed to the Maine statesman. Mr. Blaine's nearest friends have no knowledge of any such action, or of any desire on his part to encourage such a movement; instead, Mr. Blaine's name will not go before the convention.

Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

Our readers, we are sure, thank us for the publication of the university address delivered in West Virginia yesterday by Hon. S. B. Elkins.

There are many persons who hear Mr. Elkins abused and see him caricatured as a friend of Mr. Blaine, and notice that the elegant Mugwumps are pleased to call him "Steve," and naturally assume that he is a political boss, who is in politics as an occupation.

LIBEL SUITS FOR REVENUE ONLY. Yow Plaintiffs are Often Used as a Catspa

The plaintiff in a libel suit against "The Detroit Journal," which was discontinued recently, makes an interesting explanation of the manner in which he was led into the action. It illustrates the condition of many other complainants in similar cases against responsible newspapers throughout the country. He never would have instituted these proceedings, declares this plaintiff, except for the repeated importunings of no less than five different lawyers, who "kept nagging" at him to bring suit; who represented to him that he was badly injured and could collect big damages. Finally one attorney per suaded him to sign a contract by which it was agreed that if anything was realized from the litigation the proceeds should be divided equally between the lawyer and the client. Soher reflection, however, appears to have left the plainontinued recently, makes an interest-The tenering curtains of the Night.

When the multiform sources are considered from which the news of a great daily is derived—information that coming through hundreds of hands from all quarters of the globe centres itself upon the office where within the limits of a few hours, at most, it must be culled, sifted, condensed and hammered into form—the occasion for surprise is, not that misstatements are sometimes made side cond among the Republican delegates en route or about starting for Chicago.
